It is the pool-room slate that is cracked now.

The "good old has been" is not to prevail in the National politics of the "is now."

Another earthquake in the metropolitan district. Thank you, we were doing very well without these seismic commodities.

Now the City Club is to denounce Commissioner Brennan. The city streets have been silent, yet eloquently, doing the same thing for some time.

New Jersey is a blower for the Mitchell-Corbett fight. Nothing is said as yet, however, about inducing the legislature to legalize the contest by special act.

It is an age of liberal ideas and should be one of broad reason. But there is narrowness and bigotry and intolerance in all the forces that tend to close the World's Fair gates on Sunday.

In fixing the compensation to be given to the city by any rapid transit corporation for the franchises which shall be delivered to it, it should not be forgotten to make rapid transit itself the subject of the principal guarantee.

Out in Minnesota they have been paying $85 per ton, retail, for coal since last October, and the positive revolt against the combine has just begun. The conclusion is irresistible that in the matter of persistent patience, the meek Mr. Job of Scriptural fame, would be quite out of it in Minnesota.

According to the annual custom, "The Evening World" will appear to morrow in such form as to make itself a pleasant reminder and acknowledgement of the day that will be under process of celebration. Every true-hearted admirer of St. Patrick will find a copy of the paper an interesting souvenir of the occasion.

The School Commissioners do not want women on the Board. Put there are a great numbers of tax-paying citizens who do not want women there and there are parents of young scholars who want the same thing. Furthermore, there are women deeply interested in educational causes, who, appointed to Commissionerships, would do vast credit to the Board, the city and themselves.

Shocking demonstrations of the length to which ignorant credulity may go is furnished in the cable story of the peasant parents in a Russian province who allowed a fanatic lecturer to strangle their young daughter that he might show how he could restore life. The sum of three hundred thousand dollars strangling was so thoroughly done that has gone in junkeatings, the people ought to know it, however anxious the World's Fair Commission may be to keep "mum" about it.

TELEGRAM OF THE DAY.

The full fruits of the victory in the United States Senate, that last refuge of Republicanism, were reaped yesterday when the committees were reconstructed with Democratic majorities. This provides a complete change in the large proportion of the Senate and the substitution of Democrats for Republicans in all the offices and committee chairmanships.

The appointment of ex-congressman McAdoo of New York, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was due to the influence of Senator McPherson, whose conservative position on the silver question has given him special claim on the President's friendship. Mr. McAdoo is well fitted for the position. He is well posted on naval matters and is full of energy and vigor.

The nomination of Edward H. Whitney as Assistant Attorney general is the first distinctive Attic-snapper selection of ship-shifting until the navy of the United States is equal in strength to the greatness of the country, and they should seek for appropriations for new ships from every Congress. This indicates that the American policy recognized by Secretary Whitney, and followed by Secretary Tracy, will be continued under Secretary Herbert.

The Secretary made a very good impression on the others and others who were present to him. There is evidently a genuineness and straightforwardness about him which bespeaks a practical, efficient and honest administration.

Four years more.

The bill to extend the term of office of Health Officer Jenkins was "fixed up" by the politicians of Albany yesterday after the breeze of the previous day, and it was agreed to give him four years instead of five.

The probability is that the nomination will go through without any difficulty.

THIRTY-FIVE AND TWO THIRDS.

Mr. Richard Croker has gone into the horse-racing business with a vigor that partakes of his political energy. He has bought a full half-interest in the thoroughbred stock of the famous Belle Meade Farm in Tennessee. The price paid in cash is stated to be a quarter of a million dollars.

It is evident that Mr. Croker designs taking the place on the turf formerly held by such men as August Belmont and Leonard Jerome. He will in future figure as the boss of the race track as well as the boss of the Whizway, and his time will be divided between winning purses and managing politicians. If the trainers and jockeys of his stables are as efficient and as faithful as his trainers and jockeys of the districts, they will take many a thoroughbred of his stud past the winning-post.

It has already been reported that Mr. Jenkins, some of it just and some of it unjust, is to establish a race track of his own. If he does, Sheephead Bay and all other tracks will look like diminished heads, and the Jockey Club will doubtless undergo reconstruction. Whether McGregor sits is the head of the table.

It is not known whether United States Senator Murphy is a partner with Mr. Croker in his new purchase, as he is understood to be in the valuable stock farm already owned by the Tammany leader. Indeed, Mr. Croker's new departure in the direction of the race track has been kept very quiet up to this time, his intention to take to the turf having been only known to Superintendent McGregor sits is the head of the table.

The question is, after all, whether it is expedient at this time to reappoint him or appoint any one else for four years, when the experiment of the new Quarantine methods are yet to be tried and when the entire business of Quarantine is undergoing reconstruction. This question should be treated from the standpoint of the public safety, and not from that of personal, family, or political interest.

THE EPILOGUE.

Under the mistaken belief that they have got the city by the throat, the Manhattan corporation managers are attempting to secure all the new privileges and concessions they want without making any compensation to the people. They would hardly double their business and their large profits if the plans of the Rapid Transit Commission should be adopted. But they grasp for more, they seek, in fact, to build up a monopoly to the exclusion of real rapid transit, and they characteristically demand all they want for nothing.

The Manhattan corporation already owes large sums of money to the city and is fighting the people's just claims. It should not be given another privilege without compensation, nor before making a fair settlement of past indebtedness. Major Gilroy and Comptroller Hayes are disposed to guard the public interests in this direction. Better that the people should wait a little longer for relief than they should be made the victims of this corporation's greed and avarice. Instead of the present plan, the better will be the plan of the Sunbeam, the better will be the project for the accomplishment of real rapid transit.

GIVE THE LEADS.

Assembled at Albany, he is opposed to making an additional appropriation of three hundred thousand dollars for the States exhibit at the World's Fair until he is informed how the first thousand thousand dollars was expended.

Yesterday, when a motion was offered to make the favorable report on the bill a special order for today, Mr. Alsworth opened the discussions of his majority and wanted to know, you know a great deal that is at present hidden from the vulgar eye.

What has been done with the money? Did any of it go for champagne? Did any of the Extra Dry go down the throats of the members of the Wiss and Means Committee to wash down the new appropriation demanded? How much was spent for a special ramekin train to Chicago? How much for lunches, desks and the like?

These were the items of information Mr. Alsworth was after. He wanted to know also which one of the Commissioners had the handling and the spending of the money, and he offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling for a detailed report of the expenditures.

Now let us have the items and the vouchers. No one begrudges the New York Commissioners or the Assembly Committee of Ways and Means a few bottles of champagne, but if the whole show how he could restore life. The sum of three hundred thousand dollars strangling was so thoroughly done that has gone in junkeatings, the people ought to know it, however anxious the World's Fair Commission may be to keep "mum" about it.

Although panniers are not yet openly favored by fashion there are some indications that before the season is over they may be arrived at indirect ways. Lace is gathered in a deep flounce to the edge of the round waist in Russian style. It is also set on the outside of the edge of the bodice, with swivel sleeves which are half linen are selling in delicate lace.

THE NEXT THING IS THE FANNIER.
